The ACR-Pezzoller International Award for Cancer Research is given annually to a scientist who has made a major scientific discovery in the field of cancer, who continues to be active in the field, and whose ongoing work holds promise for future contributions to cancer research. The Pezzoller Foundation was established in 1982 by Professor Alessio Pezzoller, a dedicated Italian surgeon who has made important contributions to medicine during his career and who, through his foresight, vision, and generous gift in support of the formation of the Foundation, stimulated others to make significant advances in cancer research. Over the past decade the Pezzoller Foundation has given a major award for outstanding contributions to cancer and cancer-related biomedical science.

The American Association for Cancer Research (AACR) was founded in 1907 by eleven physicians and scientists dedicated to the conquest of cancer and now has nearly 14,000 members in more than 60 countries who are experts in basic, clinical, and translational cancer research. The mission of the AACR is to foster cancer research; this is accomplished in part through outstanding scientific publications, meetings, and training and educational programs. Because of the commitment of the Foundation and the AACR to scientific excellence in cancer research, these two organizations are collaborating annually on the presentation of the ACR-Pezzoller Award. This jointly sponsored award will strengthen international collaborations and will be a catalyst for advancements in cancer research internationally. The awardee will be selected by an international committee of AACR members appointed by the AACR President along with the agreement of the Council of the Pezzoller Foundation. While normally the Award will be presented to a single investigator, in exceptional cases two individuals may be selected to share the award when their investigations have resulted in related prize-worthy work. The committee will make its selection solely on the basis of the awardee's scientific accomplishments without regard to race, gender, nationality, or religious or political views. The candidate will give an award lecture during the ACR Annual Meeting in Philadelphia, USA (April 10-14, 1999) and will receive the award in an official ceremony at the Foundation's headquarters in Trento, Italy, after the annual meeting. The award consists of an honorarium of US$75,000 and a commemorative plaque.

Submission of Manuscripts
Clinical Cancer Research, a journal of the American Association for Cancer Research, publishes original articles describing clinical research on the cellular and molecular characterization, prevention, diagnosis, and therapy of human cancer. Its focus is on innovative clinical research and translational research which bridges the laboratory and the clinic. Clinical Cancer Research is especially interested in clinical trials evaluating new treatments for cancer; research on molecular abnormalities that predict incidence, response to therapy, and outcome; and laboratory studies of new drugs and biological agents that will lead to clinical trials in patients. All submissions undergo peer review. Papers should be sent directly to an appropriate Senior Editor or to the Editor-in-Chief for review. See "Instructions for Authors" (page ii of this issue) for complete mailing addresses of the Editor-in-Chief, Deputy Editor, and Senior Editors.

Janssen is pleased to announce that it has agreed to support an ASCO Young Investigator Award with the intent to support research in the general area of signal transduction. ASCO's guidelines stress the importance of a goal to make the results ultimately clinically relevant.

The ability to understand signal transduction pathways will hopefully enable physicians to intervene at the fundamental cellular level in the disease process. This should result in drugs with greater efficacy and fewer adverse effects than conventional cytotoxic or hormonal anticancer therapy.

ASCO invites applications for a grant of $35,000 (total costs) of one year's duration. ASCO anticipates that a successful applicant may apply for a second year of support during the first year support. If the program is successful, it is anticipated that in subsequent years, additional applications will be sought.

This program is part of Janssen's commitment to the research and development of new anticancer agents.

ELIGIBILITY
Applications are encouraged from fellows and medical professionals in the field of oncology. Multiple submissions will be considered. However, each applicant may receive only one grant.

Applicants must be fellows of an academic institution with an identified sponsor (who is an ASCO member) and mentor. Applicants who are not active members of ASCO must apply for membership with the Society.
